

Design Technology Vocabulary

Feel the Force

Lever (noun): A long piece of a certain material used for lifting or opening something by placing one end of it under an object and pushing down on the other end.